

Parsippany Hills High School wins NFL Fuel up to play 60 contest.

Parsippany Hills High School was the winner of the NFL Fuel up to Play 60 contest. The contest was sponsored by the NFL and the American Dairy Council. Pomptonian Food Service was pleased to participate in the event. School Districts across New Jersey entered the contest that encouraged students to drink more milk. Parsippany Hills saw the biggest increase in milk consumption across the state. The grand prize was a visit from the New York Giants football player Barry Cofield. Cofield visited the students during lunch and spoke about the importance of drinking milk and exercise. Students were treated to pictures and prizes from the Giants player.

